

DRINKS MENU

PERUKE & PERIWIG
Nº 31 DAWSON ST, DUBLIN 2

Welcome to Puke & Periwig.

Steeped in history, this building on Dublin's Dawson Street started life in 1846 as William M Jordan's Pedal Harp Maker. Rumour has it that William had a curious penchant for wigs and headpieces, inspiring the birth of Puke & Periwig as a tribute to Dublin's love for tall tales and delightful folklore.

Exploring our three floors, you'll find yourself immersed in a wonderland of wigs, curiosities, and portraits from times gone by. Each corner of our intricate space conceals hidden stories that have ignited the imagination of our talented bartenders. These tales have set the stage for the fourth edition of our menu, a captivating exploration of headwear from diverse cultures worldwide and its profound cultural and historical significance.

Each of our creations bear the name of unique headwear, drawing inspiration from far-off lands and blending their distinctive traits with bold and enticing flavours. These cocktails aim to artfully capture the essence of different cultures, inviting you to delve into the depths of robust tastes and unveiling our unwavering commitment to innovation and creativity.

We invite you to join us on a journey of discovery and elevate your drinking experience to unparalleled heights. At Puke & Periwig, we promise a symphony of flavours that will linger in your memory long after the final sip.
